OBJECTIVE

I'm a very friendly, humorous person with a knack for being organized. I look forward to work because I know I will be getting something out of it (not necessarily a pay check) in return for my time. I understand it is important to establish a trusting and supportive relationship with my fellow workers, management, and anyone else I may come into contact with. Outside the work place I feel it is important to represent my employer well and to not create a bad reputation through my own personal actions.
